1. Introduction

The True Consequences of a Criminal Conviction

The impact of a criminal conviction is greater than a number of days in prison or a number of dollars fined. Hundreds of federal, state, and local laws impose additional consequences on people convicted of crimes, many of which remain in effect far beyond any judicially-imposed sentence. Unlike incarceration and fines, however, those additional consequences are frequently unknown to attorneys, judges, and the individuals whose lives they profoundly affect.

This publication attempts to document the true impact of a criminal conviction in Colorado. It contains consequences that arise under Colorado law, yet are not included in the sentence imposed by a judge at the conclusion of a criminal case. The goal of this work is to provide all participants in the criminal justice system a more accurate understanding of how a conviction will impact the life of an accused person and, less directly, the community in which that person will ultimately live.

Five Critical Questions for Assessing Consequences

Some of the consequences mentioned in this publication—such as the loss of a public benefit—can have an immediate impact on accused persons and their families. Other consequences, however, may be impossible to identify as issues before a criminal case reaches disposition. For instance, a person charged with a crime may not be aware that he or she will one day aspire to enter a profession for which being convicted of that crime is disqualifying.

Five questions can help individuals and their attorneys identify those consequences most likely to impact their decision-making process as a case moves toward disposition.<sup>1</sup> This publication is loosely organized around these questions, which are designed to be asked of people accused of criminal offenses:

1. How are you employed?

In many professions certain charges or convictions can result in losing a license or certificate necessary to work. Asking this question can help identify whether an individual works in a field likely to track and care about criminal activity.

2. Do you receive any public benefits?

Eligibility for many public benefits can be lost upon conviction for certain crimes. Asking this question can identify whether an individual is at risk of losing critical support, either for themselves or their family.

3. What is your family situation?

Some types of convictions can impair an individual's ability to be a part of his or her family, especially when children are involved. Asking about family can identify whether this is a concern.

4. Do you own, or will you want to own, any firearms?

Any felony conviction or a misdemeanor involving domestic violence can leave an individual permanently unable to possess a firearm. Asking this question can both determine whether that is a concern and warn against future charges resulting from unlawful possession of a weapon.

5. Are you a United States citizen?

Non-citizens charged with crimes are often at risk of either being deported or deemed inadmissible. Asking this question can determine whether immigration status is a necessary concern.

The Impact of Federal Law

Federal law imposes numerous consequences of conviction beyond those created by Colorado statutes and regulations, but is generally beyond the scope of this publication. A few broadly applicable federal statutes and regulations have been included for purposes of making this publication more useful to the general public and legal community.

For additional information, the Public Defender Service for the District of Columbia, in conjunction with the American Bar Association, has assembled an excellent resource focused on federal consequences: Internal Exile: Collateral Consequences of Conviction in Federal Laws and Regulations.<sup>2</sup>

Limitations of this Publication

This publication describes consequences arising under the 2010 Colorado statutes and electronically-searchable Colorado regulations. Due to the volume of material covered it is necessarily incomplete, as some statutes and regulations have inevitably been missed.

The internal policies established by individual state and local agencies are not included. Those policies can, however, have a profound impact on the consequences of a conviction. Local public housing authorities, for example, may have widely different positions on how a conviction impacts eligibility.

Sparse information regarding enforcement is another major limitation. Every effort has been made to note where statutory language indicates a particular penalty or sanction is required. In many cases, however, a criminal conviction “may” prevent someone from obtaining a particular license, certification, or benefit. How individual agencies exercise that discretion is difficult to ascertain. In some cases what appears to be discretionary language could be enforced in a way that effectively renders a consequence mandatory.

In sum, this publication is intended only as a guide to be used in identifying issues. It is not a substitute for legal advice, and people with specific issues should talk to an attorney.

2. Why Criminal Records Matter

Widespread Availability of Criminal History

Criminal history records are more widely available now than ever before. Colorado is an open records state, meaning that the custodians of criminal justice records may allow any person to inspect those records except under limited circumstances. C.R.S. 24-72-305(1). The general public can search Colorado criminal records instantaneously and at minimal expense through the Colorado Bureau of Investigation's website, without having to provide a verifiable reason for the search.

Widespread record availability has profoundly impacted individuals' ability to move beyond an arrest or criminal conviction. Gone are the days when a minor run-in with the law could be forgotten. Because any potential employer, landlord, creditor, or government program administrator can check criminal records at any time, any prior conviction becomes an easily detectable and frequently permanent blemish upon an individual.

Limited Sealing of Criminal Records

Criminal records can only be sealed under limited circumstances. Under C.R.S. 24-72-308, arrest and criminal records other than those of convictions can typically be sealed if:

- The records pertain to official actions involving a criminal offense that was not charged, was completely dismissed, or in which the person was acquitted, or
- The records pertain to an offense that was not charged or a case that was dismissed due to a plea agreement in a separate case, and:
  - o A petition to seal the records is filed ten years or more after the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the person, and
  - o The person has not been charged with any criminal offense in the ten years since the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings.

Conviction records can only be sealed for select drug-related offenses. Under C.R.S. 24-72-308.6, sealing of conviction records for offenses involving controlled substances entered after July 1, 2011, may be possible:

- For a petty offense or a class 2 or 3 misdemeanor, three years after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision concerning a conviction.
- For a class 1 misdemeanor, five years after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision concerning a conviction.

- For a class 5 or 6 felony, seven years after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision concerning a conviction.
- For all other offenses in article 18 of title 18, C.R.S., ten years after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant or the release of the defendant from supervision concerning a conviction.

For controlled substance convictions entered prior to July 1, 2011, under C.R.S. 24-27-308.5, sealing is possible when:

- A petition to seal the records is filed ten years or more after the later of the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings against the defendant, or the release of the defendant from supervision, and
- The defendant has not been charged with a criminal offense in the ten years since the date of the final disposition of all criminal proceedings or the release of the defendant from supervision.
- Earlier sealing may be available if there is no objection from the district attorney. C.R.S. 24-72-308.6(4)(b).

Instructions for sealing criminal records, as well as the documents necessary for doing so, can be found on the Colorado State Judicial Branch website.<sup>3</sup>

Limited Expunging Opportunities

Colorado does not have a widely available mechanism for expunging adult criminal records.

Most juvenile records can be expunged if statutory eligibility criteria are satisfied. C.R.S. 19-1-306. Juvenile records cannot be expunged for:

- A person who has been adjudicated as an aggravated juvenile offender or a violent juvenile offender.
- A person who has been adjudicated for an offense that would constitute a crime of violence under C.R.S. 18-1.3-406.
- A person who, as a juvenile, has been charged by the direct filing of an information in the district court or by indictment pursuant to C.R.S. 19-2-517, unless the person was sentenced as a juvenile in the same matter.
- A person who has been adjudicated for an offense involving unlawful sexual behavior.

Courts and the Department of Revenue can expunge records of a conviction for underage drinking and driving with a BAC of at least .02 but not more than .05 if the person requesting the action is over twenty-one years of age and several additional criteria are met. C.R.S. 42-2-121(5), 42-4-1715(1)(b).

Biological samples collected following a felony arrest can be expunged under some circumstances. C.R.S. 16-23-105.

Instructions for expunging juvenile adjudications, as well as the documents necessary for doing so, can be found on the Colorado State Judicial Branch website.<sup>4</sup>

3. Employment

Appendix I contains a list of individual professions where a criminal conviction (or in some cases a criminal charge) can be either disqualifying or potentially disqualifying under Colorado statutes and regulations. The information in this chapter is broadly applicable to Colorado employers and employees.

Critical Employment Areas

1. Government Licenses, Certificates, Registrations, and Contracts
  - As a general rule, if a job requires any type of government-issued license, certificate, registration, or contract, then a criminal conviction could have adverse employment consequences.
2. Vulnerable People and Positions of Trust
  - As a general rule, the greater the extent to which a job involves working with vulnerable populations of people (i.e. students, the mentally ill, prisoners, etc.), the greater the extent to which a criminal conviction may curtail employment possibilities.
  - Also as a general rule, the greater the extent to which a job involves a position of trust or responsibility (i.e. financial responsibility, responsibility for the wellbeing of another, etc.), the greater the extent to which a criminal conviction may curtail employment possibilities.

Guilty Pleas, Nolo Contendere, and Deferred Judgment

When evaluating a criminal offense, the entities that regulate most of the professions listed in Appendix I treat a guilty plea, a plea of nolo contendere, or a deferred judgment, the same way that they treat a conviction following trial.

Defining Crimes of Moral Turpitude

Many of the professions listed in Appendix I are regulated by entities that consider whether a license holder or applicant has been convicted of a crime involving “moral turpitude.” The phrase “moral turpitude” has not been defined by statute, at least as used in that context.

What constitutes “moral turpitude” appears to be a case-by-case determination dependent upon the elements of the crime at issue and the factual circumstances of the situation. Interpreting that phrase, Colorado courts have held that a wide range of conduct involves moral turpitude. For examples, see People v. Martin, 897 P.2d 802, 804 (Colo. 1995) (third degree sexual assault); People v. Emeson, 638 P.2d 293, 295 (Colo. 1981) (willful failure to file a tax return); R & F Enterprises, Inc. v. Board of County Commissioners, 606 P.2d 64, 67 (Colo. 1980) (prostitution); People v. Silvola, 575 P.2d 413, 413 (Colo. 1978) (theft).

One of the few cases holding that a particular offense was not a crime of moral turpitude involved driving while ability impaired. Hartman v. Wadlow, 545 P.2d 735, 737 (Colo. App. 1975). See also Fort v. Holt, 508 P.2d 792 (Colo. App. 1973) (involving firearms regulations).

The Effect of Out-of-State and Federal Convictions

Many of the statutes regulating professions listed in Appendix I specify that out-of-state or federal convictions count against an applicant or licensee in the same way as a Colorado conviction. Many others do not specify.

Just because another state does not consider a certain type of conviction disqualifying does not mean that Colorado will agree. For instance, some states may not care whether a public transportation fare inspector has ever been convicted of a felony. In Colorado, however, an out-of-state felony conviction is a mandatory disqualification. C.R.S. 18-4-802(4)(b)(III).

The Effect of Internal Regulations and Policies

This publication contains only Westlaw-searchable Colorado statutes and regulations. It does not include all of the internal regulations and policies followed by individual governmental authorities or agencies. One therefore cannot assume, based on the absence of a mandatory disqualification listed in Appendix I, that an individual employed in a regulated profession will not be subject to an adverse employment action if convicted of a crime.

The Effect of Federal Law

The impact of federal law is beyond the scope of this publication. Nevertheless, federal restrictions on some broadly applicable professions, such as military service, have been included in the list of occupations in Appendix I.

Nearly all jobs working for the federal government are subject to criminal history checks.<sup>5</sup> The extent to which a criminal record will prevent employment varies from job to job. Most jobs requiring federal licensure also have restrictions on persons with various types of criminal history. Federally regulated occupations with such restrictions include but are not limited to:

- Federal law enforcement.
- Child care.
- Transportation industries (air, road, rail, or sea).
- Commodity dealers.
- Broadcast licensing.

<sup>5</sup> For more information see Federal Executive Order 10450 – Security Requirements for Government Employment, available: <http://www.archives.gov/federal-register/codification/executive-order/10450.html>.

- Firearms related professions (arms use, dealing, transportation, etc.).
- Farm labor contractors.
- Financial institutions (banks, brokers, dealers, investment advisers, etc.).

The degree to which a person’s criminal history will preclude employment frequently depends on the nature of the individual job and applicant. For additional information, see Internal Exile: Collateral Consequences of Conviction in Federal Laws and Regulations, produced by the American Bar Association and Public Defender Service of the District of Columbia.<sup>6</sup>

Governmental Discrimination Based on Criminal Record

Under many circumstances a criminal offense cannot serve as the sole basis for the state denying an employment opportunity. Colorado’s Public Employment Eligibility Statute provides: “the fact that a person has been convicted of a felony or other offense involving moral turpitude shall not, in and of itself, prevent the person from applying for and obtaining public employment or from applying for and receiving a license, certification, permit, or registration required by the laws of this state to follow any business, occupation, or profession.” C.R.S. 24-5-101(1)(a).

The intent of the statute is to expand employment opportunities for people who “have been rehabilitated and are ready to accept the responsibilities of a law-abiding and productive member of society.” However, it exempts certain professions, including:

- Peace officers.
- People in positions involving direct contact with vulnerable persons.
- Educators.
- Persons employed in public or private correctional facilities or juvenile facilities.
- PERA employees.
- State offices and convictions described in article XII, section 4, of the Colorado Constitution.

Regarding “moral character” requirements, the statute provides: “Whenever any state or local agency is required to make a finding that an applicant for a license, certification, permit, or registration is a person of good moral character as a condition to the issuance thereof, the fact that such applicant has, at some time prior thereto, been convicted of a felony or other offense involving moral turpitude, and pertinent circumstances connected with such conviction, shall be given consideration in determining whether, in fact, the applicant is a person of good moral character at the time of the application.” C.R.S. 24-5-101(2).

Many other professions are regulated by statutes that seem to exempt them from the Public Employment Eligibility Statute. See Appendix I for additional information.

Private Discrimination Based on Criminal Record

Private employers have great discretion in determining whether to hire people with a criminal record, and there are few checks on private employment decisions.

Under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, employers are not supposed to impose blanket exclusions on employing anyone with a prior arrest or conviction.<sup>7</sup> Instead, a criminal-history-based employment prohibition should depend on: (1) the nature and gravity of the offense or offenses; (2) the time that has passed since the conviction and/or completion of the sentence; and (3) the nature of the job held or sought. Regardless, the fact remains that there are few controls on private employers.

No Colorado law prohibits outright discrimination by private employers based on criminal history, and employment can typically be terminated for essentially any reason. Thus, even if a state agency determines that a previously convicted person is eligible for a license to practice a certain profession, that individual has no guarantee of finding an employer willing to accept his or her criminal history.

4. Public Benefits Programs

Public Housing

The federal government has established several subsidized housing programs that are administered by local Public Housing Authorities (PHAs). Individual PHAs have great discretion regarding who—and what types of criminal histories—they will accept. Federal law, however, imposes several broadly applicable restrictions on who PHAs can admit or retain as residents.

Many of the restrictions below apply to “any household member,” thus creating a situation where the conduct of one person can result in a loss of housing for an entire family. Additionally, many are based on the PHA’s evaluation of conduct alone and do not require a conviction in order to prohibit or terminate housing.

- PHAs must prohibit admission if:
  - o The PHA determines that any household member is currently engaged in illegal use of a drug.
  - o The PHA determines that a household member’s illegal drug use or pattern of illegal drug use may threaten the health, safety, or right to peaceful enjoyment of the premises by other residents.
  - o Any household member has ever been convicted of drug-related criminal activity for the manufacture or production of methamphetamine on the premises of federally-assisted housing.
  - o Any household member is subject to a lifetime registration requirement under a state sex offender registration program.
- PHAs may prohibit admission if any household member is currently engaged in or has engaged in during a reasonable time before the admission:
  - o Drug-related criminal activity.
  - o Violent criminal activity.
  - o Other criminal activity that may threaten the health, safety, or right to peaceful enjoyment of the premises by other residents or persons residing in the immediate vicinity.
- PHAs must terminate assistance if they determine that any member of the household has ever been convicted of producing methamphetamine on the premises of federally assisted housing.
- PHAs may terminate assistance if they determine:
  - o Any household member is currently engaged in any illegal use of a drug.
  - o A pattern of illegal use of a drug by any household member interferes with the health, safety, or right to peaceful enjoyment of the premises by other residents.
  - o Any household member has engaged in violent criminal activity.
- For additional information, see 42 U.S.C. §§ 1437f, 13661-13663; 24 C.F.R. § 982.553.

Additional restrictions may apply to public housing, even in the absence of federal regulation. For instance:

- Group homes for people with mental illness, as established pursuant to C.R.S. 30-28-115, shall not accept people determined to be not guilty by reason of insanity of a violent offense, or who have been convicted of a felony involving a violent offense. C.R.S. 30-28-115(1)(b.5), 31-23-303(2)(b.5).
- Homeless and emergency shelters have widely varying policies regarding people with a criminal history, especially violent crimes and sex offenses.

Food Stamps

- A person shall be temporarily disqualified from receiving food stamps for:
  - o Obtaining, or aiding another in obtaining, food stamp benefits to which the person is not entitled. C.R.S. 26-2-305(1)(a). Subsequent offenses may result in permanent disqualification.
  - o Being found by the agency or convicted in a court of having made a fraudulent statement or representation in order to receive multiple food stamp benefits simultaneously. C.R.S. 26-2-305(1)(b).
  - o Being found guilty in a court of law of purchasing controlled substances with food stamps. An individual shall not be ineligible due to a drug conviction unless misuse of food stamp benefits is part of the court findings. C.R.S. 26-2-305(1)(c). Subsequent offenses may result in permanent disqualification.
- A person shall be permanently disqualified from receiving food stamps for:
  - o Trafficking in food stamps having a value of five hundred dollars or more. C.R.S. 26-2-305(1)(a).
  - o Being found guilty in a court of law of trading ammunition or explosives for food stamps. C.R.S. 26-2-305(1)(d).

10. Special Considerations for Sexual Offenses

People convicted of sex offenses face a wide array of consequences beyond prison time. Because those consequences change frequently and are often imposed by local governments, they cannot be fully documented in this publication. The following considerations are, however, likely to apply.

Residency and Zoning Restrictions

- Colorado does not have a statewide law concerning where sex offenders can live. Many municipalities and counties within Colorado—as well as many other states—do have such laws.
- Residency restrictions range from limitations on proximity to facilities such as schools, parks, and daycares, to effective banishment from a city or town. Some policies apply only to sexually violent predators and specifically include or exclude juveniles; others apply more broadly. Zoning restrictions in some areas limit the number of unrelated sexual offenders living together. Additionally, some loitering ordinances target individuals who have been convicted of sexual crimes. Violation of such policies can result in civil or criminal penalties.

Registration Requirements

- Colorado's registration laws are complex and constantly evolving, especially concerning the registration of homeless and transient individuals. C.R.S. 16-22-101 to 16-22-115.
- Registration laws and opportunities to terminate registration obligations vary greatly among states and many are experiencing further modification in response to the Adam Walsh Act, a piece of federal legislation enacted in 2006 and still being implemented.
- Being deemed a sexually violent predator triggers specific rules including public community notification meetings every time the person moves, Internet registration, and quarterly registration for life. C.R.S. 16-13-901 to 16-13-906, 16-22-111.
- Registration generally requires payment of fees and personal appearances at local law enforcement agencies. The person registering may be required to provide and keep current with local law enforcement his or her addresses for home, work, and school, as well as information concerning his or her vehicles, e-mail addresses, etc.

Travel Between States

- A person who has successfully been removed from one state's registry cannot assume he or she will not be required to register in another state. A person whose registration obligations in another state have already been terminated may still be required to register in Colorado until he or she obtains a court order in Colorado absolving him or her from registration here. C.R.S. 16-22-103(3).

- Some states restrict a wide array of activities by sex offenders, such as taking photographs, trick-or-treating, or entering public libraries. These restrictions may apply regardless of where the offender was convicted.
- Due to the diversity of registration obligations, anyone traveling outside of Colorado even for a short time should carefully investigate his or her obligations since full registration may be required in another jurisdiction depending on the length of the trip and rules of that jurisdiction.

Social Stigma

- Even when a person's registration status does not require public posting on the Colorado Bureau of Investigation's website, many private entities make available information concerning adult and juvenile sex offenders (i.e. The Denver Post website).
- Those convicted of sexual offenses may not be permitted on social networking sites such as Facebook.
- Nationally there have been numerous incidences of vigilantism against those believed to have committed a sexual crime.

11. Special Considerations for Controlled Substance Offenses
